

Merck Grant Programs

Offers several grant programs to help biopharmaceutical and biotech start-ups, entrepreneurs, scientists, and students bring innovative ideas to the next level.

Programs include:

The Advance Biotech Grant Program

- The Advance Biotech Grant Program is offered on a regular basis in different regions of the world. The program recognizes stand-out emerging biopharmaceutical and biotech start-ups and awards grant recipients with products, services, and consultation to advance production and help accelerate the path to commercialization. Since 2014, more than 40 biotech startups have been recognized through this Program. Merck is honored to support their missions as they pursue therapeutic solutions for patients suffering from cancer, brain tumors, osteoarthritis, and cardiovascular disorders. To be considered for the grant, you must describe your therapeutic focus, clinical strategy, and explain how we can help you overcome challenges and address gaps in expertise to bring your innovation across the finish line.

ANZ Grant Program

- The ANZ grand prize for an emerging, start-up biotech or biopharmaceutical company includes AUD 136,000 in products and services, and support such as upstream, downstream and formulation consultation services, and a subscription to the Emprove® Premium program.

Annual Research Challenges

- The Research Challenge is a competition for technology pioneers at the leading edge of innovation. In this challenge, you'll be presented with a task and a time limit, and the opportunity to apply your expertise and competitive spirit. Research grants are designed to stimulate innovative research in challenging areas of future importance.

Please refer to Merck's website for details regarding each program, including opening and closing dates for applications.
